

Welcome to our December newsletter!

We are approaching the end of the year, and also the end of the KIDS4ALLL project. We have finalized the second pilot of our platform, and we have started numerous tasks on the reporting and evaluation of our results. With the finalization of our activities, comes a moment of widely disseminating the results and findings of the project. In the last few months, the KIDS4ALLL team has participated in numerous events, where we had the chance to share our project. The partners from SIRIUS have written a blog on the two policy briefs they developed together with the partners from the Institute for Education.

The KIDS4ALLL policy briefs are advocacy papers that include a section where we analyze and disseminate knowledge on inclusive education approaches, based on a literature review and the findings of the KIDS4ALLL project research and pilot, together with a series of policy recommendations. So far, we have developed two policy briefs, one on 'Peer Learning - Facilitating the Integration of Migrant Students in Education' and a second one on "Lifelong Learning and Skills - Creating a Resilient Future for Migrant Students in Education".

KIDS4ALLL Activities

KIDS4ALLL latest activities

In the last few months, all partners finalized the second pilot phase of the project, and with the completion of this task, a really important part of the project workload focused on the evaluation of the results. To do so, partners have completed the report of the second pilot phase, ethnographic evaluation, and an overall assessment report on the development of competences and perceived inclusion, as well as the report on the feedback from stakeholders. All these activities are part of a rigorous monitoring and evaluation of our activities, which has been an essential part of our project, ensuring the optimal results of our work.
